Artistic skills and competences

I am young filmmaker from the Roma community of Plemetina village. My documentary film making experience began in 2003 with a Balkan Sunflowers (NGO) project involving Plemetina Roma youth. A year later, I began working with Koperativa and Quawava (Production Companies). This work increased my motivation and interest in film making, and since then I have continued producing my own documentaries. One of them, "Road to Home", was screened at Cannes Film Festival in 2007; it was the only Kosovar film presented. In 2007, I have founded Romawood, a production house focusing on Roma issues. Later that same year, he initiated the "Jekh Kham Jekh Sel" project, which has made the most indelible impact on his life and work. This project invited eleven Roma boys and girls from Plemetina to learn about documentary filmmaking and spread their message to the world. I am currently producer and manager of Romawood Productions and continue my voluntary involvement with Balkan Sunflowers.
